

DAISY "DANGER" BRAMBLETAIL

Two-foot-tall harengon druid, Daisy Danger, speaks bluntly, repays loyalty, and fiercely defends her home.

GENERAL

| Parameter                           | Calculation                      | Current (L7) |
|-------------------------------------|----------------------------------|--------------|
| Hit points: base; additional levels | +8 + CON mod;+5 + CON mod    | 38           |
| Hit point die                       | D8 per lvl                       | D8 x 7       |
| Armor class                         | Leather armor (+11) +DEX mod | +13          |
| Proficiency                         | +1 L5, L9, L13, L17              | +3           |
| Spells prepared                     | WIS mod + lvl                    | 10           |
| Spell attack / casting modifier     | WIS mod + PB                     | 6            |
| Spell save difficulty class         | WIS mod + PB + 8                 | 14           |

ABILITIES

| Abbreviation | Meaning           | Crnt | Saving Throw |
|--------------|-------------------|------|--------------|
| Lvl          | Level             | 7    | -            |
| PB           | Proficiency Bonus | +3   | -            |
| STR          | Strength          | -1   | -1           |
| DEX          | Dexterity         | +3   | +3           |
| CON          | Constitution      | +0   | +0           |
| INT          | Intelligence      | +0   | +3           |
| WIS          | Wisdom            | +3   | +6           |
| CHA          | Charisma          | +2   | +2           |

---

SPECIES: HARENGON

| Trait                  | Description                                                                         |
|------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Ability Score Increase | +2 one skill, +1 one skill, or +3 one skill                                         |
| Leporine Senses        | Prof in Perception                                                                  |
| Hare Trigger           | + Prof to initiative roles                                                          |
| Lucky Footwork         | Reaction: Add D4 roll to failed DEX saving throw*                            |
| Rabbit Hop             | Usage / long rest: # PB; Bonus Action: Jump 5x PB ft, no opportunity attack* |
| Languages              | Common + one other (Sylvan)                                                         |

* Can't if prone or speed = 0

---

CLASS: DRUID CIRCLE OF THE LAND (FOREST)

| Trait              | Lvl | Bonus                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
|--------------------|-----|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Extra Cantrip      | 2   | Additional Druid cantrip                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| Natural Recovery   | 2   | Short rest - recover spell slots; Combined lvl = 1/2 lvl (rounded up); No 6th lvl or higher                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| Land's Strike      | 6   | Moving through non-magical difficult terrain costs you no extra movement • Pass through non-magical plants without being slowed and without taking damage , e.g. thorns, spines • Advantage on saving throws against magically created plants or manipulated to impede movement , e.g. Entangle spell |
| Nature's Ward      | 10  | Can't be charmed or frightened by elementals or fey, and you are immune to poison and disease .                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| Nature's Ward      | 10  | Immune to poison and disease                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
| Nature's Sanctuary | 14  | Beast or plant attack must make WIS saving throw against druid spell save DC. Failed save: creature chooses different target, or misses; Successful save: creature immune to this effect for 24 hours.                                                                                                                     |

---

BACKGROUND

| Aspect            | Notes                                                                       |
|-------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Personality Trait | I bluntly say what others are hinting at or hiding.                         |
| Ideal             | People. I help the people who help me—that's what keeps us alive. (Neutral) |
| Bond              | My town or city is my home, and I'll fight to defend it.                    |
| Flaw              | People who can't take care of themselves get what they deserve.             |